M&A integration and separation specialists

If you'd like to know us a little better ...

DD Consulting is a niche consultancy specialising in M&A advisory services. We are one of the only consultancies in the UK dedicated to mergers and acquisitions programmes.

Our Partners have supported clients through some of the largest and most iconic acquisitions of the last 20 years, we write books and articles on M&A, we lecture at top business schools, sit on management boards and we training executives. We really know M&A.

Our team all come from 'Top Four' consultancies, but we're certainly very different in touch, feel and the way we work with you in small, highly experienced teams, listening to what you want from us, we tailor our approach to suit you.

We're passionate about working with our clients throughout and between their acquisitions, so we strive to build and maintain genuine relationships. As part of this, we place great value on transferring our skills and knowledge over to you, though capability improvement and training.

Because the benefits of successful acquisitions must be delivered through structured integration programmes, our services are centred around our extensive experience of M&A programme delivery.

This diagram illustrates what we do, but it's how we do it that makes us easy to work with.
